

Questions remain in shooting

The results of a forensic investigation of a crime scene will likely determine whether a Venice man will be charged with the shooting death of his cousin.

Demetrius Williams, 22, of the 900 block of Carson Street, St. Louis, was found shot to death Dec. 3 in the men's restroom at Garrett's Lounge. Police have charged Algie Ingram, 20, of the 900 block of Webster, Venice, with unlawful possession of a weapon by a felon. Ingram is being held in the Madison County Jail in lieu of $30,000 bond.

During a coroner's inquest Wednesday into Williams' death, Clarence Banks, an agent with the Illinois State Police Division of Criminal Investigation, testified that Williams had been shot once in the left eyelid with a .38 caliber two-shot derringer.

Banks testified that Ingram told police he and Williams left St. Louis together and went to Garrett's lounge. Because Ingram was carrying his derringer and Williams was carrying a .25 caliber automatic, the pair tried twice to get into Garrett's but were unable to do so because of the use of a metal detector wand at the door, Banks said.

Banks said Ingram then gave Williams his gun, got past the door, and Williams followed after stuffing the guns into his socks.

Once in the bar, Ingram alleged that he followed Williams into the bathroom to retrieve his gun, Banks said. Once inside, Williams bent over to get the derringer when it discharged, striking him in the left eyelid and the second bullet striking the room's south wall.

While the forensic investigation continues, the shooting remains a mystery. (See SHOOTING, Page 8A)

Policeman's death blamed on cocaine

By Nicole Vaughn
Staff writer

A 20-year veteran of the Venice Police Department died from an enlarged heart, caused by cocaine abuse.

According to a pathology report read Wednesday by Madison County Coroner Dallas M. Burke, Bruce Fletcher died of cardio myopathy (enlarged heart) due to cocaine abuse. Fletcher, 41, was found dead Dec. 27 in the floor his Weaver Street home in Venice. According to his sister, Fletcher had been home with the flu and had been watching movies on his VCR earlier that day.

During Fletcher's inquest, Venice Police Chief James Bennett testified that Fletcher was a heavy drinker and that it was rumored that he had been using cocaine.

"But nothing I could attest to," Bennett said.

Bennett said Fletcher began complaining of flu symptoms hours into his dayshift Dec. 28.

"I told him to go home and rest," Bennett said. Fletcher tested positive for cocaine and his blood alcohol level was well below the 1.0 limit for intoxication, Burke said.

The coroner's jury ruled Fletcher's death accidental. The circumstances of Fletcher's death are not unlike those of another Venice man, Ricky Pow-

When drug abuse kills a 20-year police officer, it is bound to give all police officers a black eye.

Police Chiefs Don Knight of Granite City and Charlie Braddock of Madison both said they were shocked and saddened to hear that Sgt. Bruce Fletcher of Venice died from cardiomyopathy due to cocaine abuse. But, both said, police officers are a part of society and

Lincoln Place is chosen for revitalization program

By Randy Vaughn
Staff writer

Lincoln Place will be the location this year of Granite City's neighborhood revitalization program. The program will bring $300,000 worth of improvements to the area.

The recommendation from the Downtown Committee was approved by the City Council on Tuesday after several months review of neighborhoods by the city's economic development staff.

The plans include curb and guttering improvements to Niedringhaus Avenue and West 20th Street, tree and grass additions to Niedringhaus, W. 20th, Maple Street and Chicago Avenue; a parking lot at 240 Niedringhaus; and neighborhood banners.

The area was chosen because of the quantity of single-family residences with a high rate of owner-occupancy; its historic character; the need for repair of many of the homes; the importance of the neighborhood as an entrance to the city; and the resurgence of its neighbor, the federal government's Melvin Price Support Center.

Lincoln Place will be the third phase of the ongoing revitalization program. The first phase in

Opening of closed street ends 'controversy'

By Mike Myers
Staff writer

A series of traffic signs outside the Grenzer-Garesche Homes came down Wednesday, ending a controversy that Madison city officials say, never really was.

Last month, the Madison City Council passed ordinances making it illegal to park on the north side of Collinsville Avenue and blocking off Ewing Avenue at Collinsville Avenue.

The action, along with new street lights on Collinsville Avenue, was intended to help police combat reported drug trafficking in the area.

Both traffic ordinances were unanimously repealed Tuesday night. According to Alderman Norris Horton, one of the aldermen representing the area, a meeting was held with the tenants' council, Madison County Housing Authority and police prior to the ordinances being presented to the City Council.

"We agreed this would be done on a trial basis," Horton said. "Everyone agreed that, if it didn't work, it would be rescinded."

Soon after the signs went up, a number of Grenzer-Garesche residents began complaining that the action took away their parking and, through what Horton called a "misunderstanding," that the action had been taken against the wishes of the residents in the first place.

A meeting held Jan. 8 included Horton, Mayor John Bellico, the tenants' council, housing authority and police. Horton and Bellico said then that, based on the objections presented, the ordinances would be repealed at the next City Council meeting — the one held Tuesday night.

But before the aldermen could meet, the issue ballooned, at least according to stories in some area newspapers, into a racial issue. That led to County Board Member Don Garrett, D-Madison, using the platform at the Martin Luther King Jr. birthday celebration in Venice to refer to the Madison city government as "racist."

At Tuesday's meeting, Horton, one of two black aldermen in Madison, told a large, mostly black, crowd that included Garrett and two aldermen from Venice that "I have not been goaded or intimidated."

Cities may decide boundary line issue

By Mike Myers
Staff writer

The questions raised by the issue of where Michael Antonovich Jr. lives mean the boundary line between Madison and Granite City can no longer be ignored, according to Madison City Attorney Casper Nighossian.

Antonovich, who was running for alderman, was removed from the ballot last April when the city's Election Board, chaired by Mayor John Bellico, ruled he actually lived in Granite City.

The city boundary runs through Antonovich's building at 1401 Madison Ave. The Madison County Circuit Court upheld the ruling of the Election Board.

Antonovich then filed to run for Democratic precinct committee against Bellico in the March 1992 primary election but was removed from the ballot by Madison County Clerk Evelyn Bowles after it was found that Antonovich was registered to vote at a residence other than 1401 Madison Ave.

At the time of the ruling, Bowles said the ruling leaves the issue of which city Antonovich resides in up to the city to decide.

In response to a question at the Madison City Council meeting on Tuesday, Nighossian stressed that the latest action to remove Antonovich from the ballot was an action by Bellico as an individual and not an action by the city.

But, Nighossian said, he stands by the ruling of the city's Election Board last spring and the subsequent upholding of the ruling in court.

Bellico is Madison County Democratic chairman. About two-thirds of Antonovich's building and five-sixths of his property are in Granite City, Nighossian said.

"His is not the only property split by the boundary," Nighossian said.

"All along the line, the properties are split by the line. Sometimes it may run through a house, sometimes through a lot; sometimes it just cuts off a corner."

Because of mutual aid agreements and "common sense," Nighossian said, there have not been any problems deciding which city provides fire and police protection in an emergency.

"But now Antonovich has pushed and pushed this until, now, it has to be addressed," he said.

"The question is, do we want

Jurors urge 3rd trial, defense seeks dismissal in porn case

By Nicole Vaughn
Staff writer

Both sides filed paperwork Tuesday concerning a third trial of a Granite City man on a pornography charge.

Associate Judge J. Lawrence Keshner received a letter signed by nine jurors and one alternate juror complaining against last week's declaration of a mistrial for the second time in proceedings against Timothy P. Carney, 37.

Also on Tuesday, defense attorney Leon Scroggins filed a motion to dismiss the charge against Carney, saying that a third trial would cause Carney "unnecessary time and expense after already having been subjected to double jeopardy."

Keshner declared a mistrial Jan. 17, citing a reference by Assistant State's Attorney Craig Jensen to a previous jury while cross-examining Carney the day before.

"It was an inadvertent mistake made in the heat of battle," Keshner said last week. "But I firmly believe it prejudiced the jury."

The jurors, however, disagreed. According to the letter, the jurors met immediately after the mistrial was declared to "debate the reason" for it.

"It is our collective opinion that the basis for dismissal of the jury, that being reference having been made to a prior jury trial, would have had no bearing on our ultimate, just decision," the letter reads.

"A fresh, unbiased jury had been selected by both attorneys. The facts, evidence and testimonies presented in our presence were our only basis for decision."

Carney was charged with possessing child pornography in April 1990 after he allegedly ordered and received lewd material from Artists International, a fictitious agency created by the government in a child pornography sting operation. The first trial ended in a hung jury.

In the second trial, Scroggins had attempted to use entrapment as a defense because Carney was arrested 10 minutes after the tape arrived at his home.

Transit center plans get support

By Randy Vaughn
Staff writer

Granite City could have expanded bus service and a new downtown center by this fall.

Madison County Transit officials' proposal to break ground in late February received enthusiastic support on Tuesday from the Granite City Council.

Transit officials addressed the Council at the mayor's request and predicted grand opening ceremonies in September.

"It's really going to be a plus for our community," Mayor Von Dee Cruse said. "People have waited a long time for something to happen downtown, and this project is going to be a very nice addition."

The center will be located at 19th and Edison where the old Washington Theatre once stood. Five local Madison County bus routes will operate on hourly schedules out of the new facility. Transit officials estimate a total of 22,100 fixed route bus trips will depart from the center annually, carrying up to 200,000 passengers by 1993.

The proposed facilities include: A terminal building containing a seating area for waiting passengers and an electronic timetable; off-street island loading area for nine medium and three standard buses operating on seven fixed routes; and an access-controlled park and ride lot for approximately 24 vehicles.

"This goes to show you what intergovernmental cooperation can do," said Nelson Harbauer, chairman of the Madison County Board. "It couldn't have been done without the cooperation of the council."

Madison County Transit service will be greatly expanded. (See TRANSIT, Page 8A)

2 charged in shooting on I-55 near Hamel

An East St. Louis man and woman are facing felony weapons charges after allegedly firing a number of shots at a Missouri family on Interstate 55 near Hamel.

No one was injured in the shooting early Sunday. According to an Illinois State Police spokeswoman, a 30-year-old man from Imperial was driving his wife, 27, and two boys, 8 and 3, southbound on the interstate when his car was shot at and hit five times by a passing motorist.

The Imperial man copied the car's license plate number and followed it off an exit near Hamel, where more shots were fired at the car, the spokeswoman said.

"Nobody was hurt," she said. Investigators from the state police Division of Criminal Investigation traced the plates to an East St. Louis home. After a search, two people were charged with aggravated discharge of a firearm.

Bond for both Michael D. Poore, 24, and Barbara E. Poore, 21, was set at $100,000 each by Associate Judge J. Lawrence Keshner.

ers. Powers, 30, was also the subject of a coroner's inquest Wednesday.

Powers was pronounced dead in his Venice Home apartment at 11:57 a.m. Dec. 4 by Deputy Coroner Barbara Werner.

In an interview with police, a Cahokia woman said that she and Powers had smoked crack cocaine all through the day before his death. About 9:30 p.m. that night, the woman said Powers had a seizure but declined assistance after she called an ambulance.

According to a pathologist report read by Burke, Powers died of cardiac arrhythmia (accelerated heart rate) due to cocaine abuse.

An alcohol screen was negative but Powers' tested positive for cocaine, Burke said.

According to Burke, the two deaths are more typical of the widespread use of cocaine. "They no longer have to overdose to have drugs kill them," Burke said. "With cocaine, prolonged use just tears the heart up."

Granite City Alderman Casmer Skubish's plan for a local tax on lottery sales may have rough sailing in the state legislature. Skubish successfully got the plan, which would give 5 percent of local sales to local government, on the priorities list of the Illinois Municipal League. Under the plan, the money for local government would come out of the prize fund.

The league will present a bill based on the plan to the legislators, but Roger Huebner, director of the legislative program for the league, said that because state law requires all lottery revenue to go to education, he is unsure the bill will get a warm reception.

"It is definitely a concept where the work will be cut out for us," Huebner said. "Especially if (legislators) feel it will deprive education of money."

U.S. Rep. Jerry Costello, D-21st District, told a group of senior citizens in Granite City that some sort of national health care plan will be approved this session of Congress and said it is important that that plan be a good one because "we will have to live with whatever it is for many years."

Costello said that, when looking at a plan, he believes it is important that people retain the right to choose their doctor and hospital and that the plan must include dental care.

"A society that cannot provide basic services for its citizens, and health care is one of the most basic, will not last very long," Costello said. "It is important that we have a medical system that includes all Americans."

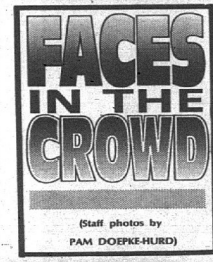

Gov. Jim Edgar's veto Friday of a proposal to restore a delayed payment to school districts is expected to have minimal effects on Granite City.

The Granite City School District uses an accrual accounting system, which will record the payment as if it wasn't delayed. Most Illinois districts use a cash-flow system, which doesn't record the payment until it arrives.

Doors to disabled to begin swing open

Doors that may have blocked full participation for people with disabilities will begin to swing open Sunday.

After years of protests, lobbying and legislation by advocates of people with disabilities, the Americans with Disabilities Act of 1990 will take effect.

Private businesses as well as public bodies will be forbidden from discriminating against and blocking access for people with disabilities.

"The whole purpose of the ADA is to integrate people into the community," Impact Inc. Executive Director Dick Goodwin said. "It's a non-profit agency that helps people with disabilities to live as independently as possible."

Under the law, any business that provides service to the public must make reasonable efforts to become accessible to those with disabilities. That includes restaurants, department stores, grocery stores, hotels and motels, museums, theaters, professionals' offices and hospitals.

"If businesses don't do this, they are subjecting themselves to legal liabilities," Goodwin said.

"What people will have to do is individualized. What is reasonable for a small corner store is different than what is reasonable for Sears."

To ensure a business is in compliance, managers and owners should take a hard look at their buildings and surroundings, Goodwin said. "It's an opportunity for them to do self-evaluations."

The first thing property owners will need to consider is adequate parking for people with disabilities, he said. Then they will have to determine if any barriers keep people out of their businesses.

"Make sure people can get from the parking lot into the building. Even if a business already has curb cuts, make sure the cuts meet the standards," Goodwin said. "The most important thing is that people can get into businesses."

Some businesses will have to make only minor adjustments.

The law also deals with restrictions against employment discrimination. After July 26, businesses with 25 or more employees cannot discriminate against a potential qualified employee because of a disability.

Businesses must make reasonable efforts to accommodate employees with disabilities. The ADA was passed to ensure those with disabilities are able to participate fully in the community, Goodwin said.

"This is not an anti-business law. It's helpful to everyone."

SIUE divides commencement

A split with tradition could make graduation a closer and easier affair for SIUE students.

This summer's commencement at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville will be divided into five ceremonies. In the past, one ceremony was held outside on the university's Mall, and all graduating students would receive their degrees in that ceremony.

But this summer the graduating students from SIUE's different schools will get their degrees in separate, shorter exercises.

All the ceremonies will be June 13 at the Vadalabene Center or the Meridian Ballroom in the University Center. The Vadalabene Center will house graduation ceremonies for the Schools of Fine Arts and Communications, Humanities, Science and Social Science and University College at 9 a.m., the School of Education at 1 p.m. and the School of Business at 5 p.m. The Meridian Ballroom will be the site for the School of Nursing graduation at 11 a.m. and the School of Engineering at 3 p.m.

Puppy classes offered

The Madison County Humane Society will hold puppy classes at Maryville School beginning at 6:30 p.m. Feb. 7.

Cost for the five-week course is $25. The course will include socialization, dominance exercises and house training. Participants should bring their puppies to the first class.

For more information on the puppy classes, or to register, call Cindy at 288-9723.

Landlords' group to meet

The Metro-East Landlords' Association will hold its monthly meeting at 7 p.m. Jan. 27 at the Ponderosa Restaurant in Cahokia.

Betty Bucknell from H & R Block will be back this year to provide an update on filing 1991 taxes.

A survey recently sent to members and prospective members about the future direction of the association will be reviewed. The association provides education on real estate investing and landlording. Any landlord in Metro East is welcome to join. Persons may call 337-3499 for information.

Family films on drinking

The Chemical Dependence Program at St. Elizabeth's Hospital in Belleville is sponsoring a family education program at 7 p.m. Tuesday, Feb. 4, and Thursday, Feb. 6, on the main floor of the hospital.

The film, "Slight Drinking Problem," will be shown on Tuesday. It highlights the problems a family can experience.

On Thursday, "Chalk Talk" will be shown. In this film, the Rev. Martin presents the progression of the disease of alcoholism. The film seeks to help families learn who is and is not an alcoholic.

The program is open to anyone from the community interested in learning more about alcoholism and its effects on those close to the alcoholic. There is no charge.

For additional information, persons may call St. Elizabeth's Chemical Dependence Program at 234-2120, ext. 1555, or 1-800-800-9011. All calls are confidential.

Scott archaeological dig receives funding

By Nicole Vaughn
Staff writer

A grant for nearly $300,000 will eventually help unearth archaeological findings near Scott Air Force Base.

George R. Holley of Edwardsville, a staff assistant for contract archaeology at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, received a grant for $299,997 from the Illinois Department of Transportation earlier this month.

"We've found evidence of human life from 10,000 BC to 1400 AD," Holley said.

Some of that evidence included broken tools. "It was a good area to live for the Indians," Holley said.

Free tax help for the elderly

Anyone 60 years of age or older is eligible to receive help with income tax returns at no charge through the American Association of Retired Persons.

Tax counselors will be available at Granite City Moose Club 272, 19th and Benton entrance, Granite City, on Mondays, 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. from Feb. 3 through April 13.

Help is also available on Wednesdays from 12:30 p.m. to 3:30 p.m. at the Granite City branch library on Johnson Road Feb. 5 through April 15.

On Fridays, 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. from Feb. 7 through April 10 help will be available at the Magna Bank in Bellemore Center.

Those interested should bring the following: their 1990 tax return, the 1991 tax package received in the mail, W-2 or W-2P forms, 1099 forms, Social Security annual statement, and any other expense or income information, including Illinois real estate tax paid in 1991. No appointments necessary.

The archaeological recovery is part of a two-year project to determine the impact of property acquisitions and construction associated with the proposed joint-use airport at Scott.

Holley and his assistants surveyed 3,700 acres of property and mapped several dig sites for Phase I of the project. Phase II involves the recovery of the artifacts.

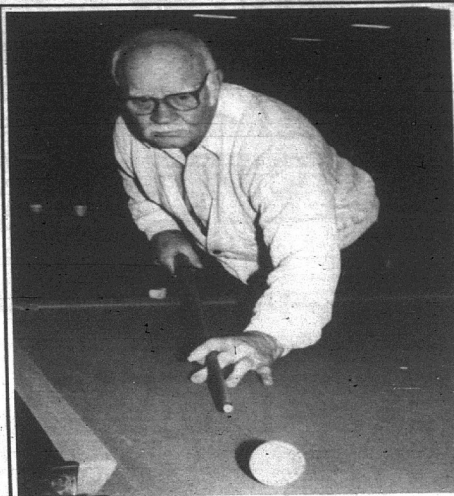

While digging may not begin until early summer, Holley said he is not worried about potential finds being damaged.

"Those fields are still being cultivated," Holley said. "They've been cultivated for 200 years. A few months won't matter that much."

Holley has recently been involved in several significant projects.

He helped establish a research field school at several Cahokia Mounds sites. At the field school, Holley and his colleagues used new recovery methods that limit the destruction of cultural resources. Those methods have benefited other field investigations, including the Scott project.

Next month, Holley will take a field crew to Belize to conduct research at the classic Mayan site of Xunantunich located near the Guatemalan border.

Black and American history

As we pass the observance of Dr. Martin Luther King's birthday and move toward Black History Month in February, one can expect media's annual lip service to the accomplishments of black Americans.

We will hear once again that a black man, Christus Attucks, was the first person killed in the American Revolution. We will again hear about Booker T. Washington and agricultural education and about George Washington Carver and the peanut. We might even hear, in passing, about Frederick Douglass and W.E.B. DuBois.

Then it will be all over for another year. And, again, the whole point of Black History Month will have been missed. American history is meaningless unless it contains the accomplishments and downfalls of all Americans, black and white. The black portion, good and bad, has traditionally been deleted from American history. Black History Month is intended to bring black history into the mainstream of American history.

Is it really one history? It was a white woman who, knowing it was against the law, taught her young slave Frederick Douglass to read and started him on the road to being a black abolitionist leader. The woman was willing to break the law, not because she had any great love for blacks, but because she felt the law, which was intended to keep blacks from becoming the equals of whites, was silly. She was sure that blacks could never be the equals of whites.

History, of course, proved she was wrong. White academia opened its arms to W.E.B. DuBois and allowed him complete academic freedom in its Ivy League schools. But it was with the understanding that DuBois use the knowledge to become a leader in black society. All the knowledge in the world, he discovered, wasn't going to even get him into mainstream American society, much less allow him to become a leader.

But, having come that far, DuBois would not allow himself to be denied the role in society he had earned just as surely as any of his white classmates. As a founding member of the NAACP, DuBois became, not a black leader, but an American leader.

The Rev. Stokely Carmichael said that black Americans earned more rights in one fiery weekend in Watts than in all the years since the Civil War. At the time, St. Louis Cardinal pitcher Bob Gibson compared the "race riots" to baseball's brush-back pitch: Sometimes you have to get their attention in order to earn their respect.

And, although he was often mockingly called "a black leader white men cannot be separated," it would be an error, Dr. Martin Luther King said, to mistake non-violence for inaction.

There is nothing passive about non-violent resistance. Dr. King said, but rather it is a full-scale war fought with a very powerful weapon: Love.

Which brings us full circle back to media lip service. The rights that black leaders fought for and, in some cases, won are the human rights. It would be a mistake to think there could be an America without those rights — black history and American history cannot be separated.

The day should come when students, and the media, acknowledge black history in January and March and April, May, June, July, August, September, October, November and December.

And also in February. And maybe by then it will be American History Month.

No compassion for homeless?

Carol Clarkin writes a weekly column for the Edwardsville Journal.

Before bidding a fond farewell to the holiday season just past, one final comment:

Like me, I'm sure that a lot of you were warmed Christmas morning by the news that Scrooge was alive and well and celebrating the holiday in New Hampshire. And doing KP duty at a Manchester soup kitchen, where he helped serve a holiday meal to the homeless.

Of course, the previous day, campaigning in Concord, Patrick Buchanan had endorsed the famous sentiments of an ungenerative Scrooge — "Are there no workhouses? Are there no prisons?" — to a shopping mall audience.

Speaking of the homeless, Pat had conceded that "some homeless are homeless through no fault of their own."

I guess we can assume that those he served dinner to in Manchester had been carefully screened to assure that all Americans among the deserving poor, because Pat made it crystal-clear that he's no bleeding heart when it comes to dealing with the "undeserving" homeless.

"We've got an obligation to keep our streets and cities safe; I think the vagrancy laws have to be enforced," Buchanan said; he stands four-square against panhandling.

There's no constitutional right to panhandle, he told his listeners, and if he had his way, I'd put them up for one night and if they kept doing it (panhandling)... I'd pick them up for vagrancy and lock them up."

Buchanan apparently equates homelessness with lunacy. He described as deranged and dangerous some "folks down in New York" who stabbed a woman to death in Central Park — folks he assumed to be homeless.

His solution is a simple one: (Too simple, as a matter of fact.) Restrict these people to certain public areas and keep an eye on their activities in those limited areas. If they start panhandling passers-by, warn them; if they continue to beg, lock 'em up, prosecute them.

Since vagrancy laws don't carry penalties ensuring long-term jail sentences and since our prisons are already crowded wall to wall, this solution doesn't carry a lot of weight as a scare tactic.

Perhaps he has something in mind a little more like — oh, I don't know — a concentration camp? Anything to get them out of sight and, with a little bit of luck, out of mind?

President Bush is campaigning in New Hampshire, starting in mid-January, but I don't think we'll see him endorsing the harsh suggestions offered by Pat the Challenger.

His advisers, I'm sure, will remind him that the Buchanan Plan for the homeless is somewhat lacking in compassion. Something Buchanan advisers should have mentioned in advance to their candidate.

No, I think we can bank on the president to say something nice, kindly, compassionate, and full of Christian charity about the homeless — something vague and evanescent, shimmering like pink cotton candy, with just about as much substance as that carnival treat.

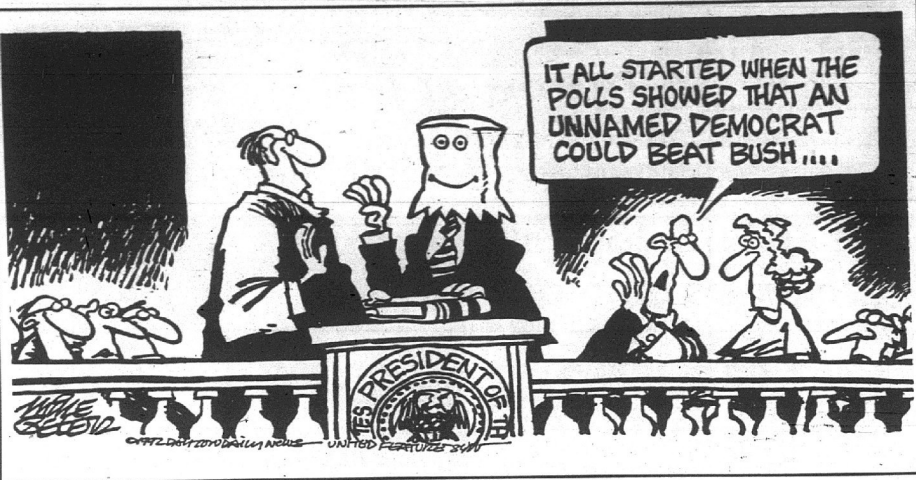

To give the devil his due, Buchanan is true to his principles, in the case of his solution to the problem of the homeless as in other things.

Whether you agree with his principles or not — I for one do not — he has them.

I'm still trying to figure out exactly what principles, if any, George Bush is firm in supporting. They seem to change, from one day to the next.

As for the homeless, neither man need worry unduly, as long as public attention can be focused on other matters.

After all, if you have no address, you can't very well register to vote.

State's approach making recession worse

Our guest

(This guest column is by Richard J. Walsh, president of the Illinois State AFL-CIO.)

In his recent address, Governor Edgar justified his intention to cut $350 million from state programs by saying "...we simply must resist going back to our taxpayers again and again."

The governor's alternative to "going back to our taxpayers" is making across-the-board cuts in state programs and services cuts that result in 7 percent reductions for the remainder of this recessionary year. The consequences of these cuts would be disastrous.

The governor is proposing deep cuts in education funding when experts have attributed part of the current economic downturn to our failure to prepare our workforce to new technological challenges.

He is suggesting the reduction of safety-net programs designed to help those facing tough economic times when the recession has increased their numbers and worsened their prospects for recovery.

His plan will eliminate jobs at the same time that Illinois' unemployment rate has jumped to 9.3 percent, the highest of any state in the nation.

This is not leadership; this is an abdication of leadership. Across-the-board cuts may very well be the fastest and most expedient way to respond to the budget crisis, but they are short-sighted and certain to make Illinois' economy worse.

Have our political leaders in Springfield and Washington, D.C., not yet learned that slashing payrolls and eliminating jobs has a spiral effect on consumer confidence and spending, which in turn creates more unemployment? What the people who are proposing these cuts are implying is, in essence, "let's make things a little bit worse than they are today."

The state should be trying to stimulate economic growth instead of constricting it. We should be investing in the economy through public works projects that will provide additional jobs and fortify state tax revenues.

If the governor refuses to consider raising taxes, even temporarily, and refuses to borrow enough money to get us through this crisis, then he should ensure that sacrifices are made by all and not just the least powerful and most vulnerable citizens of Illinois.

Taxpayers have sacrificed during this period of crisis; our most needy populations have sacrificed; our children are sacrificing educational opportunities. We must now ask the business community to sacrifice as well.

I am proposing that half of our current deficit be recovered by elimination of exemptions and credits for business; specifically from the temporary elimination of the sales tax exemptions on business equipment and the elimination of the business investment tax credit. Equipment exemptions alone cost the state $157 million annually. The investment tax credit is applied directly toward corporate personal property taxes that fund education; untold millions of dollars could be put toward education if that credit were abolished.

In his message, the governor says that in 1992 there will be a General Revenue Fund dollars for programs and services that there were for 1991 programs, the first time that has happened in anyone's memory.

He says this in the very same message that he talks about how people are suffering due to the recession. How can he boast about cutting services to those same people? How can he feel good about the fact that his cuts are going to deepen the recession, promote crime instead of education, and roll up the safety net for people who have lost their jobs and their homes?

This recession is not the fault of our children, of the poor, of teachers, of state employees. This recession has been brought on by a number of factors — not the least of which were faulty federal policies and the national economy.

We cannot continue to hold corporations harmless when our state and citizens are suffering. It is time for the governor and the Legislature to make some hard choices.

Leadership is most critical in times of recession.

If Franklin D. Roosevelt had decided to cut expenses during the Depression, we wouldn't have Social Security or unemployment insurance; our grandfathers would not have built bridges or parks. We would have been deprived of the dawn of our social infrastructure.

3 burned-out sites dangerous

TO THE EDITOR:

I live in the east part of town. Perhaps it would be better to say I live in the forgotten part.

I know that the residents of this part of town who faithfully pay their taxes and try to keep their property looking nice really don't expect a great deal from the city fathers. But I think we have every right in the world to expect that burned-out houses should be torn down.

If one would drive in the 1700 block of Delmar, one would see two burned-out houses. These houses have been like this since early February of 1991.

If one would also drive in the 1700 block of State Street, one would see another burned-out house. This house has been this way since January of 1991.

These houses are beyond repair and the owner (who, of course, does not live in this neighborhood) does nothing and gets by with doing nothing.

I have been led to believe that the owner is like for any day, a person who is in a serious situation that exists and must take the necessary steps to correct the situation.

Why are these homes left in this condition and why are the owners allowed to leave them in this condition?

There have been tragic house fires in the 1700 block of Cleveland Boulevard. Those houses have been leveled.

The house that burned on 18th Street has been leveled. The house that burned at 1704 State St. has been leveled.

What is it going to take to get these three remaining dangerous burned-out shells demolished?

The alderman or alderwoman could help, but it seems the only time you see them in this neighborhood is when they are knocking on your door asking you to vote for them.

A little effort in this end of town on the part of either of them would be appreciated. In fact, a little effort from any of the city fathers in this end of town would be appreciated.

If our alderman or alderwoman can't or won't do anything, perhaps we could get help from officials in another ward. At this point in time, any help from any direction would be appreciated.

Keep citizens, firefighters safe

TO THE EDITOR:

To Alderman Dan Partney, 4th Ward, and Alderman Tom Candler, 5th Ward, Firefighters Local 253 appreciates your vocal opposition to fire station closings.

It is important for everyone — city officials and residents alike — to understand that any reduction in fire department personnel, especially those in outlying stations, places on-duty firefighters in an unsafe position, severely hampers the effectiveness of their work, performance, and also delays response time — at a time when every second counts.

Your vocal objection to the closing of fire stations lets everyone know that some of our city officials place the safety of the citizens before economics.

Unhappy with gazebo project

TO THE EDITOR:

How many more front page photos and/or articles can we expect on the "$35,000 Madison Avenue gazebo"?

I want to say it's nice, but on Madison Avenue and for what? It's a little noisy for weddings. Be sure not to schedule anything on Wednesdays, when all the trash is out on Madison Avenue beautifying our alleys.

Couldn't these Community Development funds have been used to construct a path around Wilson Park, purchase appropriate Christmas decorations or, better yet, repair the steps of City Hall?

Enough is enough! And where will the cannon end up?

Generosity cited

TO THE EDITOR:

We at Catholic Charities want to thank everyone in this community who helped us help those in need.

We were somewhat concerned in November because it seemed there were overwhelming numbers of requests. But, as always happens, the people demonstrated their customary generosity and charity and we were able to assist everyone who had come to us.

We have thanked all of the organizations and individuals but we just want everyone in the area to realize that we are blessed with so many generous and caring people.

Granite City, Madison and Venice should be proud of their spirit of giving and sharing.

A home at last

After 10-year search, group acquires theater

By Jennifer Kuller
Correspondent

After 10 years of searching, Summerstage Theater finally has a place to call home. The theater group purchased the former First Church of God building, 2906 Pershing Boulevard, where it will continue productions it previously performed at various locations throughout Granite City.

The purchase of the building is a dream come true for a lot of people involved with the group over the years, said Beverley Scroggins, managing director of Summerstage and a speech and drama teacher at Granite City High School.

"We finally have a home, a place where we can meet and rehearse and just 'be.' We no longer have to worry about moving in and out of different places," Scroggins said.

In the past, the group has had to rent space in different locations, such as the Township Hall, Julie Walsh and Julie Doctor, junior bridesmaid, and Megan Walsh, flower girl.

A video slide presentation, "A Tribute to Marriage," featuring Angela and her fiancé, Marc Treppier, was shown. Show-Me Photo-Productions, operated by Harry Kuban, produced the slide presentation.

Those in attendance were: Eva Majkut, grandmother of the bride; Connie Grupas, mother of the bride; Bert Treppier, mother of the groom; Stephanie Grupas, grandmother of the bride; MaryAnn Treppier; Dolores Hauser; Betty and Patricia Hines; Rose Schentzenlofer; Diane "wardoski"; Dorothy Frawley; Debbie Davidson and daughters; Bernadine Rosenthal; Rosemary Johnson; Shirley Petrillo; Joan Dreiste; Carol Lyons; Florence Hillicki; Cecelia and Susan Meyers.

The group has been slowly accumulating the funds needed to purchase a building since Summerstage Theater's formation nearly a decade ago. Local businesses have contributed by purchasing advertising in the group's playbills. Varied fund-raising activities and private donations have also made the purchase of the new theater possible.

"All the people who have been involved in Summerstage over the years have made it happen," Scroggins said. After the group first found the property at the end of last summer, it canvassed the surrounding neighborhood to talk to residents about the theater.

"We introduced ourselves and explained what we were going to be doing. We wanted to be sure everyone understood what we were and felt good about it," Scroggins said.

Summerstage also had to petition the city to get a special use permit for the property. The theater is a not-for-profit community organization.

The building that houses the new theater is approximately 30 years old. It is in great condition and needed very little work, she said.

The building has new carpeting, a fully-equipped kitchen, a basement, which will house the dressing rooms, and a parking lot. The theater will be upstairs.

"The building really is ideal. I think it's going to work beautifully," Scroggins said.

The group also plans to make improvements to the theater as money becomes available. Summerstage Theater will perform the first play in its new home next month.

The play, "The Musical Comedy Murders of 1940," is a spoof of old-time murder mysteries. Performances will be on Feb. 14, 15, 21 and 22, with dinner theater performances on Feb. 15 and 22.

YOUTH FOCUS: If you could be any kind of animal, what would it be?

(Asked of second grade students from Niedringhaus and Harris schools.)

By Linda Schaefer.

Jeremy Hawk
"I would like to be a hawk. I think it would be neat to be a hawk. Even if it is my last name. Because I could fly with the wind. I would like to live in a nest, maybe. I could eat things. I would never dream of eating. I could be neat."

Kristian Valencia
"I would be a cat because cats have good homes. They don't have to go to school, they go to sleep anytime they want."

Eric Banks
"I would like to be a polar bear because it is real cold down at the South Pole. If I was a polar bear, I would be able to hide in the snow where hunters could not find me."

Kelly Mitchell
"I would like to be a gorilla because I could swing from tree to tree all over the world and meet lots of friends."

Jodi Werner
"I would like to be a cheetah. I think cheetahs are pretty. And why I would like to be one, they are fast, very fast. And they take good care of themselves. And that's why I would like to be a cheetah."

Jeremy
"I'd like to be a dog. I like a dog because it's soft and sometimes mean. I can't have a dog because my mom don't like dogs. Some people are mean to dogs. Because a dog will scare you. Some dogs are 'stray dogs'."

Amanda E.

"I would want to be a snake. Because I could crawl threw the forest and make a home for myself and live forever."

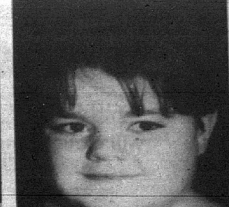

Jodie Woodard
"If I could be an animal, I would like to be a rabbit."

because rabbits are furry and friendly and nice and they don't make a lot of noise and they aren't very much trouble and they aren't very messy and they aren't hard to take care of."

dark you can see his or her eyes. A cat is furry and soft. A cat is fun to play with too."

Adam
"If I were an animal I'd be a bald eagle. I would because I could fly. I would be able to see far away. I would be a good hunter. I would be a fast animal."

State sues to shut down job service

State investigators filed suit Wednesday to shut down an allegedly bogus job service business in Alton.

The operators of A-1 Telemarketing and AAA Answering Service at 2404 E. Broadway have billed dozens of job hunters out of thousands of dollars, authorities said. Officials said they are also investigating the possibility the firm may have operated a similar scam in Cahokia and/or St. Louis.

"These people offered hope that jobs were available for a fee of $55," Attorney General Roland Burris said. "But once application was made, no job listing was offered."

Police and state investigators were also expected to raid the business Wednesday in search of paperwork and files, Assistant Attorney General Dennis Orsey said.

The job business has been operating out of the Broadway office since Jan. 30. The operators promised jobless people work in exchange for $55 but never provided job leads, authorities said. Clients were required to pay the fee in cash or with a money order.

The lawsuit names William R. Jefferson, Tony Moran, Mark Richards and Gordon Leech, who authorities said are the principal operators of A-1 Telemarketing and AAA Answering Service. They are accused of violating the Illinois Job Referral and Job Listing Services Consumer Protection Act.

The act requires job services to provide a written contract and at least three prospective jobs within 10 days. The law also prohibits them from demanding money up front and requires that they keep records of clients' job status.

Orsey, who runs the attorney general's regional office in Granite City, was tipped off to the operation last week by Alton City Treasurer Dan Beiser after Beiser and other city officials began receiving complaints about the phony job service.

Officials are investigating to determine whether the operators of the Alton business are the same people who ran a similar scam in Cahokia in late December, Orsey said. They may also be connected to a phony job service that was forced out of St. Louis in November by the Missouri attorney general's office, authorities said.

The referral services have been running classified ads in recent weeks in local publications. The ads offered to find work for delivery drivers, laborers and assembly workers. People who called the number listed in the ad were told to go to the Broadway office with cash, Orsey said.

The clients were then told to go home and wait for a call, but the calls never came, Orsey said.

The lawsuit seeks restitution for the alleged victims and a $50,000 fine for each violation of the job services act. In addition, it asks for a permanent injunction against the defendants from doing business in Illinois.

Nighobossian said he has begun meeting with Susan Bacon, assistant city attorney for Granite City, concerning the issue. The idea, he said, is to put each property into either one city or the other.

"There are a lot of things involved, a lot of things to consider," Nighobossian said.

"What I'm saying is we have to come up with a proposal that makes sense."

Shooting

tion continues, Banks testified that lab results indicate that it is possible for both bullets to go off at once because it happened during a test fire. What is as yet unexplained is why both bullets didn't strike Williams or the wall, an occurrence that one juror found "unusual."

"It was unusual to us, too," Banks said.

Forensic experts are still trying to determine Williams' position at the time of the shooting, Ingram at the scene but both Gower and Williams deny that. They say it was another cousin, Tommy Williams Jr., who returned Ingram to the scene. Ironically, Williams' father, Tommy Williams Sr., was shot to death at Garrett's 18 years ago.

Banks said that at Thanksgiving the two had gotten into an Eagle Park bar fight together and that Ingram had suffered a fractured skull in the melee.

"They were both fighting on the same side," Banks said. "They weren't enemies; they were cousins."

The coroner's jury ruled Williams' death accidental, which led to an audible gasp from members of his family who attended the inquest.

Kim Gower of Madison, a cousin to both men, said there were too many unanswered questions for Williams' death to have happened the way Ingram described. "How does a bullet go straight up through his eye and the other one goes into the wall?" Gower asked.

Gower said that Ingram had been "playing with that gun for a while" before the shooting and described Ingram as "trigger happy." Demetrius Williams' aunt, Angela Williams agreed.

"It could have been accidental that way but Algie had to have shot him," Williams said.

said MCT Managing Director Jerry Kane. Easy access to all areas will be available for 25 cents, with free and guaranteed transfers. The number of routes, and trips will increase, he said.

"The 1,000 square foot traditional brick building will have a strong symbolism back to the days of trolleys," Kane said, adding that Granite City will have a project to be proud of.

The service will be available seven days a week with weekday hours from 5:10 a.m. to 12:15 a.m.

The project should mean additional dollars to downtown Granite City businesses, Cruse said.

"People will make this thing happen, and we could have 1,000 a day coming into downtown," he said. "It will offer a better opportunity to local retail and will stop the high costs to the people of Madison County who are subsidizing the current buses."

The project will be financed by the district's one-quarter cent sales tax and will eventually be the area's book-out to the Metro-Link out of St. Louis and East St. Louis.

Construction bids are expected in early February.

improvement, grocery store owner Melle Vartan said. Vartan owns Vartan Grocers at 841 N. Edwards St. and is across the street from the proposed parking lot.

The improvements could serve as an important groundwork for improvements to the area, Vartan said.

"I think the improvements will enhance the area visually," she said. "A lot of traffic comes through here on its way to Granite City, so it determines what they think of this area immediately."

The cooperation of the neighborhood is considered to be very important. A proposed community group is to help make the program work, as opposed to making demands.

Some citizens have said the federal grant money controlled by Madison County would be better spent on road or other community improvements, Miller said. But the program is limited to specific categories and must be spent in areas of low to moderate incomes, he said.

Granite City is losing its industrial base and people who are unemployed need help to find jobs, Gordon Moore said. Moore works with Coordinated Youth Services, which he said has been renting the Lincoln Place Community Center since September for youth activities.

"It's nice, but they can grow as many trees as they want," Moore said. "It won't help the self-esteem of people who don't have their jobs anymore."

The neighborhood program is a stepping stone to positive growth, officials said.

The plan is to focus the city's resources and energy into specific areas rather than spreading funds and effort thinly and not accomplishing any visible improvements, economic development official Dave Williams said.

The biggest benefit is expected to be to home owners who have attempted to upgrade their property, Williams said. All individual property owners will be told what needs to be done to upgrade their properties to meet the minimum requirements set under the city codes.

"This is the participation of the community is so important," Williams said, adding that loans will be available through the program for those who cannot finance improvements to their properties.

The program is an aid in controlling urban blight and putting money back into city neighborhoods, Miller said.

Warriors cruise in Salem opener

By Dave Whaley
Staff writer

The Warrior basketball team had plenty of memories from the 1991 Salem Invitational Tournament. None of them were good. But Granite City went a long way towards wiping away those unpleasant thoughts Wednesday. The Warriors won their fourth straight game and their fifth in six outings in the new year with an easy 73-45 win over Murphysboro. Granite City moves into the tournament semifinals against top-seeded Centuria on Friday at 7 p.m.

Last year, the Warriors lost two games and were out of the tournament in a hurry. Not helping to raise their spirits any was the fact that it was the week the Persian Gulf War began. "They were thinking about last year a little bit early in the game," said coach Bill Ohlendorf. "But we got it going and made it pretty easy for ourselves."

For the first time all year, both Smith twins topped the 20-point mark. Jeff had 26 points on 13-of-18 shooting and Brian had 22 on 10-of-15 shooting. It was only the second game this year Brian Smith has scored 20 points, but it was the second game in a row.

"Having Brian going on all cylinders makes us a different team," said Ohlendorf. "Anybody watching us tonight who hasn't seen us before had to be impressed."

The Warriors are now 11-5. They also got 16 points from Drake Marshall and a great floor game from Michael Dochwat. The senior point guard had nine rebounds, nine assists and three steals, although he didn't score. He missed a breakaway layup early after getting a steal and that played on his mind while shooting the rest of the night. But it didn't affect the rest of his game.

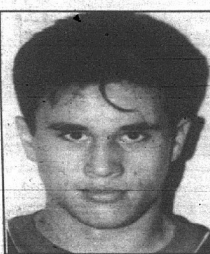

"Michael's fine play is a continuation," said Ohlendorf. "He'll be fine with more confidence. He's learning a new system with new teammates and a new coach."

The Warriors hit only one dry spell late in the first half. Marshall gave them a 23-14 lead with a three-pointer, but the Red Devils (5-9) ran off a 9-2 spurt to bring them within 30-23 at halftime.

"I wasn't too concerned," said Ohlendorf. "We were doing things too quickly. It's an easy game if you take your time and do your thing."

The teams traded baskets until John Cozair got a steal and a layup. He was fouled and converted the three-point play for a 47-36 lead late in the third quarter. That began a 29-0 run which ended the game.

It will get tougher each game now," said Ohlendorf. "But we're pretty good when both of the big boys are on and we had no problems defensively."

Depleted Trojans lose to Edwardsville, 74-49

By Rob Raphael
Correspondent

With two starters ineligible, the Trojans were outmanned and beaten 74-49 by Edwardsville in the first round of the 24th Annual Belleville East Tournament.

Able to substitute at will, the Trojans easily handed the Trojans (8-5) their second straight loss. Edwardsville coach Mike Waldo said the mass substitutions were not particularly aimed at the Trojan team.

"That is normally the way we play," Waldo said. "We like to substitute freely and run the ball up and down the court. The first twelve minutes was the best that we have played all year."

Trojan center Ronnie Williams and forward Cernyn Macon were both out for disciplinary reasons. Madison coach Al Collins said Williams should be back Friday for the consolation round game against Althoff.

"But for Macon, that is a different story," said Collins. "He didn't show up for practice Tuesday, and I can't say what his status is until I talk to him."

Collins said his team played well in spurts.

"The kids came in down for this game, not fired up," he said. "I could tell they wanted (the Trojans) badly, but they just couldn't do anything. I thought that with our players missing, they would come together. But it affected them negatively."

Collins thought a 25-point loss might be just what the Trojans needed.

"This might do us some good," he said. "I still think we have a super team, with as much talent as last year's team. But we don't work together like a team. This might convince us that we have to play together. I hope and pray this is the game that gets us on track."

The Trojans (8-5), who will play top-seeded Carbondale in the semifinals Friday, started quickly in the first quarter, using their fast-break tempo and passing skills to build a 25-10 lead. Madison controlled the Tiger fast break better in the second quarter, but Edwardsville still went on a 10-4 run to start the period, including a slam dunk by Jason Boyd. Boyd was one of three Tiger players to score in double figures, with 15 points. Andrew Thompson and Andre Brashabach each scored 10 points. Lott, who scored 19, was the only Trojan in double figures.

Maroons edge Lady Warriors in OT, 50-48

By Brian Henry
Correspondent

In the game before the Lady Warriors embarked on their recent five-game win streak, they lost in overtime to Belleville West.

History repeated itself Wednesday in Belleville as the Maroons stopped Granite City from nothing its sixth in a row with a 50-48 overtime victory.

After Karen Sykes missed the back end of a one-and-one opportunity that would have given the Lady Warriors a 48-48 lead, the Maroons came up with the ball and Tanika Hardin banked in a layup with three seconds left for the game-winner.

Sykes, who scored 20 points for the fifth straight game, gave the Lady Warriors (10-6, 3-3 in the conference) a 46-44 lead on a rebound basket with 30 seconds left in regulation. West (9-11, 3-3) came back and Allison McQuaid hit Sara Reichert with a pass in the paint which she converted to knot the game at 46-46.

"We gave them a lot of opportunities to win the game," said

Lenzi received the honor for her senior year (1991) with the Lady Warriors. She scored 10 goals and had 10 assists as Granite City went 20-4 and placed fourth in the state tournament. Amanda Witter (right), now a senior at GCHS, received All-Midwest honors from the NSCA. She scored 18 goals and added five assists as a junior in 1991.

Devils win; getting players back

Changes are coming for the Red Devils. Whether they make a big difference remains to be seen.

Venice defeated Coalterville 44-30 on Tuesday in the first game of the Sparta Mid-Winter Classic. One of the two players who has been ineligible this year returned, and the team should be back to full strength Friday.

Raymond Sherrod, a 6-4 senior, was eligible for the first time Tuesday and 6-2 senior Ivan Johnson is scheduled to be back Friday. Red Devils coach Clinton Harris said both of them would start at forward along with center Marcus Franklin.

Franklin again led the way Tuesday with 23 points and 14 rebounds. Venice took a 25-14 lead after three quarters and hung on as the Eagles scored 16 points in the fourth quarter more than they had managed in the first three quarters combined.

"Coalterville was in a weave offense and they were stalling all the way," said Harris. "Sherrod didn't rebound as much as I wanted him to. We relied on Marcus a lot again. I wish he would have played like this last year."

Raymond Sherrod

The return of Johnson should provide a lift for the Devils, who have struggled most of the year despite a 10-6 record. He averaged in double figures in scoring and rebounding as a sophomore and a junior. Venice plays Lebanon on Friday and finishes the four-team round robin Saturday against Sparta. The host Bulldogs beat Lebanon 65-54 in Tuesday's game.

"We need to work on our shooting," said Harris. "Marcus Anderson shot the ball 14 times, but only made four of them. The missed shots might be turned into offensive rebounds more often, however, with Franklin, Sherrod and Johnson pounding the boards."

"I hope nothing happens between now and Friday," said Harris. "Ivan had to make up a biology test to become eligible." Johnson was originally scheduled back last week, then at the start of this week. Now it appears he will finally be ready Friday.

1975 Red Devils to be inducted into IBCA Hall of Fame

By David Wilhelm
Staff writer

Former Venice High School basketball coach Rich Essington can remember a lot of things about his 1974-75 team. And this spring, the Illinois Basketball Coaches Association will make sure those memories live forever.

The Red Devils, who won the Class A state championship that year, will be among seven teams inducted into the IBCA's Hall of Fame. The ceremony will be April 25 at the Illinois State University Ballroom in Normal.

"My memories concerning that team are the hard work, the dedication and the amount of time those kids put in to become great basketball players," said Essington, currently the athletic director at Edwardsville High School. "In each game, no matter who the competition was, they were focused."

The Red Devils finished 32-2, and among their victories was an eight-overtime thriller against Mascoutah. In the super-sectional game at Charleston, the Red Devils won a three-overtime battle against Carmi on 5-11 junior Reggie Gardner's desperation shot at the buzzer.

After that, much of the pressure was gone, Venice, which won its second state title in 1987, was off to the Assembly Hall in Champaign, the ultimate goal of every high school team.

"The super-sectional, it seems like, is always the big hurdle," said Essington, who played at Venice and later coached two seasons at Madison. "When we got to Champaign, it was amazing how relaxed the kids were."

Rich Essington
... memories live forever

It showed, as the Red Devils cruised past Morrisonville, Watseka and Chicago Christian to win the state title.

"One of the greatest compliments I was paid was when people in Champaign told me that we were the most disciplined team they had ever seen," said Essington. "Like any team, I had a few discipline problems, but not a lot."

Venice was led that season by 6-5 senior center Michael Henry;

Other starters besides Henry and Gardner were 5-9 senior guard Jeff Corrie, 6-1 junior forward James Crowder and 5-10 junior forward James Turner. Michael Logan, a 5-11 senior forward, was the team's top reserve.

"We basically had six players," said Essington. "They were all well-rounded players. It was the type of team that didn't need role players. If we did have a role player, it was probably James Crowder."

Essington said all five starters averaged in double figures, led by Henry's 16 points per game.

"I probably have never been around a player who wanted to be as good a basketball player as Michael," said Essington. "He spent a lot of time in the gym."

Henry's older brother, Ron, was a standout player on Venice's 1973-74 team. That season, the Red Devils narrowly missed advancing to the state tournament, losing to Lawrenceville at the Charleston Super-Sectional.

The Indians were led by Jay Shidler and Rick Leighty, who went on to play college basketball at Kentucky and Illinois, respectively.

Had the Red Devils reached the state tournament that season, Essington believes they could have been defending a state title in 1975.

Profits of Illinois thrifts show increase

Illinois savings institutions posted the highest quarterly profit of any state during the third quarter of 1991. It was reported by the Illinois League of Savings Institutions.

According to the Office of Thrift Supervision's third quarter earnings report, Illinois private sector savings and loans and savings banks recorded an aggregate net profit of $95.6 million during the quarter.

The business' third quarter profit was $26 million more than the total posted during the second quarter and more than double the amount recorded in 1990's comparable period.

According to League President J. Dennis Montgomery, 185 pri-ivate sector institutions with assets of $47.1 billion were operating in Illinois as of the end of the third quarter.

OTS preliminary data indicate that Illinois private sector institutions earned $225 million during the nine-month period ending Sept. 30.

In addition to a strong earnings performance, the OTS reported that, as of Sept. 30, Illinois thrifts had an aggregate equity capital to assets ratio of 7 percent, more than double the 3 percent regulatory requirement.

Montgomery attributed the business' performance to conservative lending practices, well-underwritten assets, effective expense controls and stable real estate markets.

"The OTS numbers attest the strength of the business in Illinois," said Montgomery. "Although the business is operating in a slumping economy and is being subjected to numerous and profound changes, it continues to perform extremely well."

The OTS reported that, nationwide, private sector institutions earned $271.8 million during the third quarter, marking the third consecutive profitable quarter for the business.

Montgomery noted that while Illinois' quarterly and year-to-date earnings are impressive, there is every reason to believe that profits are understated.

He explained that, because regulators are requiring many institutions to add substantial sums to their general loss reserves, profits are undoubtedly understated.

"Additions to loan loss reserves are charged against income, resulting in a drop in overall profitability," said Montgomery.

While recognizing that additions to loan loss reserves are essential to the safe and sound operation of savings institutions, Montgomery noted that large additions impact earnings and distort the overall earnings picture of the business.

With private sector assets of $47 billion, Illinois is the nation's third largest savings institution state.

Small-business seminar set

The new year of the Tri-Cities Area Chamber of Commerce began officially on Oct. 1 with emphasis on bolstering small businesses.

The goal of the Small Business Committee is to foster support for local small-business owners and those wishing to start a new business, and to work with small-business owners and the community in developing programs for their mutual benefit. The newly revised program will consist of support in four main areas: training, education, motivation and public relations.

Seminars will play a leading role in training, education and motivation. All business owners and employees are invited to the first program, "Taking the Mystery Out of Public Relations and Marketing." Speaker will be Rosemarie Brown of Van Arch Ltd., Public Relations.

The seminar will be given from 7:30 a.m. to 9 a.m., with registration at 7:15 a.m., on Thursday, Jan. 30, at Ravanelli's Restaurant, 3 American Village Shopping Center. Cost is $5 per person, with a breakfast buffet. Persons may call 876-6400 for more information. Reservations are required.

Purchases dental practice

Mary E. Lucido, D.M.D., has purchased the dental practice of Robert A. Meintrup, D.D.S., who is retiring from private practice. Lucido attended Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville and received her dental education at the Southern Illinois University School of Dental Medicine in Alton. She is a Belleville native.

A member of the American Dental Association and the Illinois State Dental Society, Lucido has been active in community programs such as the Dental Fair at Alton Square and presentations to elementary school children.

Lucido has recently been employed as an associate in a dental practice in St. Louis County. She is married to Richard Lucido (a Granite City native) and they have three children: Maria, age 11; Tony, age 9; and Vincent, age 7.

Previous to Lucido's dental career, she was employed as a nuclear medicine technologist and radiologic technologist at St. Joseph's Hospital in Alton and St. Elizabeth's Hospital in Belleville.

Lucido's office will be in the Cottonwood Station Medical Park, 4 Cottonwood Road, Edwardsville. Her office hours will remain the same and new patients are welcome. The office phone number is 288-9091.

Employers now giving pension plans

So you thought "corporate America" meant company cars, expense accounts and profit sharing?

Not! According to an Accountants On Call national poll conducted by the Gallup Organization Inc., a pension plan is most frequently cited as a company perk employees currently enjoy.

For the survey, full- and part-time workers were given a list of seven company perks, and were asked to designate which perks they currently enjoy.

The seven perks listed were: a yearly bonus, profit sharing, a pension plan, an expense account, a company car or allowance, extra paid vacation (more than the standard two or three weeks most employees get), and comp time (time off to compensate for work done after regular hours or on weekends).

Two thirds of all employed adults report having at least one of the perks, while 33 percent didn't have any.

Of the seven perks, a pension plan was mentioned by 38 percent. One in five (20 percent) say they can take comp time. Almost as many (19 percent) report they receive a yearly bonus.

Approximately one in six (16 percent) report having a profit-sharing program and/or extra paid vacation time (16 percent). Fewer employed adults say they have a company car or allowance (8 percent) or an expense account (8 percent).

In general, there are no differences among men and women in the types of company perks they now receive.

Salaried employees and those with household incomes of $25,000 or more are more likely than those paid hourly or respondents with household incomes of less than $25,000 to report having each of the company perks asked about.

Respondents who are members of a labor union are especially likely to have pension plans (37 percent vs. 38 percent average), but less likely than average to have a yearly bonus (9 percent vs. 19 percent).

This new survey on company perks is part of AOC's ongoing "Profiles of the American Worker" series which summarizes the opinions, attitudes and behavior of employed Americans concerning workplace issues.

Honored for achievement — Two employees of Irwin Chapel were recently presented with certificates of achievement for forthright financial planning and insurance Co. for providing the highest personal performance and service in the Southern Illinois and Eastern Missouri area. Shown are, from left, Al Brown, area representative of Forthright; Mark Scott, manager of Irwin Chapel; Charles "Skip" Milhouer, assistant manager of Irwin Chapel; and Randall Irwin, president of Irwin Chapel.

Recession is real in consumer attitudes

The economy technically is not in recession, but consumer attitudes certainly are, according to Milliken University economists.

"Current data reflect an economy of very modest growth, but growth nonetheless," said Dr. Anthony Liberatore, associate professor of economics in Milliken's Tabor School of Business in Decatur.

"Despite this slow growth, consumer confidence in the economy has fallen below the levels recorded in the height of the recession," he added.

"What is important is that these attitudes can doom what appears to be an extremely fragile recovery."

Liberatore and Dr. James Watson, also an associate professor in the Tabor School, publish their predictions and analyses in the latest issue of the Quarterly Economic and Financial Fore- cast, which they prepare using an econometric forecasting model.

The economists cite the index of leading indicators and other data to predict that weak growth will continue and the economy will fall into recession.

The unemployment situation is having a significant influence on consumer confidence, according to Watson.

In October and November, the total number of jobs fell by more than 400,000, with the ranks of the jobless being filled with white-collar as well as blue-collar workers, he said.

"The true level of unemployment, however, is masked," Watson said.

"Some people are dropping out of the labor force because they cannot find work. In fact, in 1991 nearly 30 percent of the labor force was unemployed at one time or another."

The economists give credit to the Federal Reserve Board's efforts to pump reserves into the banking system.

"The effect has been to push interest rates down and finally to cause the money supply to expand," Watson said. "This is an encouraging sign for 1992."

He sees short-term interest rates continuing to fall through the first half of 1992 and long-term rates throughout the year.

"A direct shot in the arm of the economy has been provided by President Bush," Liberatore said.

"Accelerated federal expenditures and disbursements for construction projects at the state and local levels will encourage a rebound in the gross national product in the first half of 1992."

The economists warn against quick fixes. "The real problem in the United States is a lack of savings to support investment and productivity growth," Watson said.

"Any short-run tinkering will do little good in the long run if it fails to expand saving and investment."

More information about the Quarterly Economic and Financial Forecast and other Tabor School services can be obtained by calling 217-424-6285.

Expansion planned at truck stop

Expansion and renovation will continue in 1992 at the Gateway Mid-State Truck Plaza at 699 Illinois Route 203, Madison.

Mike Ziska, manager at Big Duga's Restaurant, said renovation of the main building will take place this year and plans are being set to nearly double the size of the restaurant.

Big Duga's Restaurant will also offer a special for civic organization members who show a valid club membership card, he said.

The members will be given a 25 percent discount on Saturday and Sunday and 10 percent discount Monday through Friday.
